New Draft Regulations One Bridge Replaced; Second To Go

Amid the vanishing Americans are listed the rustic covered bridges of Lawrence county. When it was found that the Kaufman Bridge over the Little Neshannock, on the Neshannock Falls Road was unsafe for the huge trucks and only safe for normal automobile traffic, the state replaced the wooden structure with the steel and concrete bridge pictured in the lower view above. Contracts have been let for the replacement of the covered bridge on the Fayette Road, also over the Little Neshannock, (top photo) with a structure like the one that replaced the old Kaufman Bridge. As these two covered bridges fade into the past, reminders of American antiquity are reduced from seven covered bridges in the county to five. The following remain: one a short distance beyond Neshannock Falls, three a short distance from Princeton, and one near Mt. Jackson. The three near Princeton are: McConnell's Mill, Breckneck and Eckert's bridge destroyed. "Improved Version

A Fifth Air Force spokesman said several Red jets encountered for the first time Wednesday, when 256 enemy and Allied planes tangled, belonged to an "improved version" of the MIG-15.

The officer said this model is definitely not Russia's reputedly latest jet plane, the MIG-19, which has yet to make its combat debut. He explained that the enemy jets spotted Wednesday were newer and faster versions of the Soviet - built sweptwing MIG - 15 which the Reds have used in battle since they put jets into the Korean skies. The spokesman said the improved model is not a "high-winged" plane. How much faster the newly-arrived Red jets are than the older version of the MIG-15 was not esti-mated. The sleek MIG-15 which has been in action over Korea has an estimated speed exceeding 600 miles per hour

EXPLOITING A VICTORY

Look for the U.S. to make every effort to exploit the victory scored over Russia at the Japanese peace treaty conference. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, in his recent Washington conferences with British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, impressed upon them the fact that the free and the strongest proponents of constitutional monarchy.

Recent stray votes and polls of man, impressed upon them the fact that the free world now is well on the way toward winning the cold war.

It was made clear in the North Atlantic Foreign Ministers' Ottawa meeting that an increasingly tough attitude toward Russia can be adopted. Clear indication of the new policy has come in U.S. measures against the Czech Communist regime in General Matthew Ridgway's stern handling of the situation arising from the stalled truce talks in Korea, and in the decision to give West Germany virtual sovereignty.

Recent statements by President Truman and members of Congress about "fantastic" new U.S. weapons of awesome destructive power are viewed as part of the "get tough" program. Meanwhile, the Kremlin is showing signs of worryreflected in part in reports that Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary may soon be taken into the Soviet Union.

MORE TO BE DONE

Much, but not enough, progress has been made in putting into effect the recommendations, made under the auspices of former President Hoover, Congress has enacted approximately 50 per cent.

Considering the force of inertia, the dead weight of custom and political pressures, adoption of half of the recommendations represents great progress. The progress has been more considerable, in fact, than a bare percentage figure would suggest.

Unification and strengthening has been achieved in such important agencies as the Departments of Defense, State, The Parent Commerce, Labor and Justice, as well as the streamlining, through new budgeting and accounting procedures, of federal "housekeeping practices" through the General Services Administration.

But great areas remain for improvement. What has been accomplished thus far was done in the 81st Congress. The record of the 82nd Congress in the field of reorganization is negative. Robert L. Johnson, chairman of the Hoover Committee, draws attention to the fact that little or nothing has been done to advance the reorganization of such huge de- be done for building more honesty partments as Agriculture and the Veterans Administration, girls today. consolidation of public works and of reclamation projects, in modernizing federal personnel procedure and in unification of the various federal medical bureaus.

TAKE ISSUE WITH TRUMAN

Some newspapers which customarily support President Truman's policies in their editorial columns couldn't support his budget speech of September 11 in which he told the American people they had nothing to worry about economic-

The New York Herald-Tribune, characterizing the President's remarks at the dedication of the $25,000,000 new General Accounting Office building as a "shocking speech," commented editorially:

Whatever else may be said about the federal budget, it is scarcely something to joke about; and it is the supercilious tone of the president's address on Tuesday, the flippancy and arrogance running throughout, which are perhaps even worse than the distortions underlying it.

" . . . At the very least we should have hoped that the president would reveal himself worthy of confidence in fiscal affairs, hospitable ideas of economy, tireless in reducing unnecessary expenditures. The Washington speech casts doubts upon these essential matters; it leaves the country something to ponder gravely in the year ahead."

The New York Times said editorially that the president himself "quite inadvertently" had produced in his speech "the most devastating indictment of the fiscal policies of his own administration." The editorial continued:

"While non-defense expenditures have gone up 68 per cent in the past 10 years, he is reported as saying, they actually declined when one takes into account adjustments for changes in the price level. Precisely. Since Mr. Truman himself took office in April, 1945, the cost of living has risen approximately 46 per cent and the cost of food nearly 67 per

The Washington Post, a staunch administration supporter, has this to say:

"No one, not even the president of the United States, can successfully defend the proposition that government spending is nothing to worry about. Mr. Truman's reference to his critics' use of 'butterfly statistics' in his speech . . . on to his critics' use of 'butterfly statistics' in his speech . . . on Tuesday, was nothing but an evasion of the issue.

. . What the president has said, in effect, is that governmental expenditures-and inflation-are no problem. If the president does not take inflation seriously, who will?"

A quick way to gain office unpopularity is to take a September vacation when the rest of the staff is back at work.

Unexpected Result Of King's Illness

The grave illness of Britain's King George VI, now reported on the possible road to recovery after a major lung operation, has had a totally unexpected result—the unification of the sharply-divided British Labor Party.

If the breach now actually has been healed—if, in other words, the announcements of the last 48 hours do not represent merely a surge of emotion for national unity surge of emotion for national unity in view of the King's illness—the picture has changed appreciably. Bevan, who inaugurated the British national health program, resigned as minister of labor in April when Chancellor of the exchequer Hugh Gaitskell introduced a budget that cut deeply into government appropriations for medical expenses.

Now Gaitskell has returned to London from conferences in Wash-ington and Ottawa with the announcement that within a short time, 82 out of every 1,000 Britons will be working on defense projects. He said that this compared with 74 out of every 1,000 in the

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Status Of Chairman Gabrielson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.-What happens to a political party too long in power is abundantly evident here in Washington. What happens to a party too long out of power is not so obvious but it is equally

Guy Gabrielson, the chairman of the Republican National com-mittee, is either himself simple-minded or he assumes that most people are when he says that a telephone call from him would have no particular influence at the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. If any congressional committee had the courage to tackle it, the record would show that some Republican senators used their influence almost more boldly and crudely that some Democratic senators.

Within the RFC—this was, of course, before the recent shakeup—the desire was strong to please the opposition so that no one would rock the boat. A Democratic senator could do much less harm than a Republican senator since the Democrats were in power and most Democrats were reluctant to expose their own administration to

May Be Innocent

Perhaps Gabrielson was completely innocent in the belief that he could confer with the RFC on delaying the payments on the loan of his company, the Cathage Hydrocol company, as would any lawyer for a client. But if he does actually believe this, then he is hardly fitted to be chairman of one the major political parties. Such a belief shows a complete lack of understanding of the relationship between the professional politician and the supposedly disinterested government

One trouble, of course, is that Gabrielson has a kind of betwixtand-between status. As chairman of the Republican National committee he gets no salary and only a small expense allowance when he travels.

He devotes three or four days a week to that job, according to his assistants. One day a week he gives to the Hydrocol company and to his private law firm in downtown New York. Even though his party is out of power, this seems to me to put Gabrielson in an insupportable

Served Without Pay

His two predecessors in the GOP chairmanship, Carroll Reece of His two predecessors in the GOP chairmanship, Carroll Reece of Tennessee and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, both served without pay. But their situation was somewhat different. Both have independent means, both had served in the House, and Scott continued to keep his House seat. The only Republican chairman in recent years to take a salary was John D. M. Hamilton of Philadelphia, who gave full time to the job and got $25,000 a year in pay and expenses.

That is the only answer—honest professionalism paid to do a professional job. If it is given the importance it should have, then $25,000 a year is a reasonable salary.

$25,000 a year is a reasonable salary.

The demand for Gabrielson's resignation coming from such stalwart Republicans as Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan has its origin in a very human feeling. These men though that they had a good campaign issue in Trumanism—the indifference of high authority to favoritism and even venality in the conduct of public business. Now the fact that their own chairman is involved in negotiations about an RFC loan seems to blur this issue, making the Republican pot look as black as the Democratic kettle.

Cost Has Gone Up

Along with everything else, the cost of professional politics has gone up. The last three reports of the Democratic National committee, covering the current year up to August 31, shows $806,647 taken in and $893,890 disbursed, with a balance of $213,894 carried over from the surplus of previous years. There are those who say the balance is actually very much less and that the committee till is nearly empty.

The Republican committee received $307,342 and disbursed $352,326 in the same period. But the Republicans have other organizations that are also collecting and spending money, including the National Republican Congressional committee, which took in $110,353.

National Republican Congressional committee, which took in $119,353 and spent $113,996.

William M. Boyle Jr., full-time chairman for the Democrats, gets $35,000 a year. His original intention was to continue in his law firm while doing his committee job. The Republicans now want to know whether he did, in fact, sever his connection with that firm.

In his week-end statement Gabrielson said, "I did this (confer with the RFC) not as Republican chairman, but as the president of a business entrusted with large sums of private as well as government capital." No matter how sincere his belief, it must have been difficult for RFC officials to tell whether he was wearing the hat of the GOP chairman or the hat of a corporation president. chairman or the hat of a corporation president.

Psychic Fears

Since the advent of literature the passing of summer has been lamented in song, poetry and prose. To some there is no sadder sight than the coloring and subsequent falling of leaves, the departure of the birds for more congenial climes, the groundhog and chipmunks retiring to their dens as well as scores of other manifestations of a languishing season. Many people are psychically distressed, more so at the symbolism rather than at the actuality. However, the distress is no less poignant. To me, back in my boyhood days, the passing of summer meant interminable hours at the woodpile, sawing, splitting and stacking endless rows of white birch, maple and wild cherry cord wood.

Just as volubly and no less sadly modern song and prose writers as well as poets turn out laments in endless procession. They are the modern purveyors of such bygone sentiment as The Last Rose of Summer, When Summer Is Gone.

well as poets turn out laments in endless procession. They are the modern purveyors of such bygone sentiment as The Last Rose of Summer, When Summer Is Gone, Silver Threads Among the Gold and those masterpieces of lament as contained in parts of Ecclesiastes 12.

Seasons Depend On Each Other To many others the passing of summer is the fulfillment of a promise. With the prodigious harvest so typical of our great land there is reason to wonder at any excessive sadness.

vest so typical of our great land there is reason to wonder at any excessive sadness.

If you are one who feels even a tinge of despondency at summer's passing it is well to remember that the four seasons may be compared to certain stages in man's life; spring making ready for the fertility of summer and summer carrying on for the fall harvest. Then, is it any wonder that after all that strenuous labor the good earth retires for a well-earned rest under the high piled snows of winter. Could there be a spring as we know it if it wasn't for the maturing fruits of autumn?

Parade Of Colors

Aside from the more practical aspects of summer's passing let's consider the esthetic angle. Above all can one remain unmoved and unthinking when viewing the pillar of scarlet that is the red maple in its autumnal livery. Or do you

Beeman Appointed Special Advisor Of State Defense

HARRISBURG, Sept. 27—(INS)

O. P. Beeman, of Whitford, a retired British army major and one-time London Civil Defense official, has joined the State Defense Council as a special advisor.

Gov. S. Fine, who announced the appointment, said Beeman was one of the top civil defense officials.

one of the top civil defense officials in London during the Nazi blitz raids of World War II.

"This man is no theorist," reported Fine. "He learned civil defense the hard way. He grapped with death and destruction rained down on London by the Nazi bombers during the battle for Britain."

Beeman familiarized binesel last

Beeman familiarized himself last ummer with latest civil defense techniques, including problems of atomic warfare, at the British Civil Defense Staff College and the Civil Defense Instructor's school. Shortly after his appointment, Beeman told newsmen:

"Time and time again British authorities have emphasized the fact that civil defense was a major factor in winning the last war. But the thing we must thing we must remember is that a paper organization is worth-less unless every available citi-zen, man and woman, has been trained in one or other of the jobs of civil defense.

"However will the army, navy and air force play their part, the and air force play their part, the ultimate responsibility for winning the war will reset on the individual the war will reset on the individual citizen."

Civil Defense Director Richard T. Gerstell said Beeman's services will be available after October 1 to local civil defense organizations "now struggling with problems of organization and training."

and to treat all peoples with sympathy and brotherly understanding.

In this lesson we learn how the disciples spread the gospel to far countries after Stephen's martyrdom. Instead of abolishing this new religion, the persecutions spread it farther than it ever had gone before, and included Gentiles as well as Jews.

A map of the Mediterranean

A map of the Mediterranean world at the time of Christ would be helpful. It should include Ethiopia, as our lesson mentions that tion, Jesus "assembled" with His disciples, and commanded them not to leave Jerusalem after He had left them, but to stay with the stay with t not to leave Jerusalem after He had left them, but to stay until they received the power through baptism of the Holy Ghost. "For John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Choet rot many days bence." He

After they had received that power, Jesus told them, "ye shall be witnesses unto Me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria and unto the utter most parts of the earth."

and like a lamb dumb before his shearer, so opened He not his mouth: In His humiliation His judgement was taken away: and who shall declare His generation? for His life is taken from the earth." parts of the earth.

Stephen being stoned to death, with Saul's (afterwards Paul's) consent, the persecutions spread, so the apostles scattered abroad, but everywhere they went they preached Christ to the people. Philip went to the city of Samaria and preached to the people of that city—usually out of the bounds for Jews.

After this the angel of the Lord told Philip to go south to the "way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert."

Philip obeyed the command and Philip obeyed the command and heart. The man answered, "I beieve that Jesus Christ is the son of God," and he stopped his retinue beside the water and was

Philip, in case you have forgotten, was one of seven good men, full of the Holy Spirit and of wis-dom, who were appointed to take care of the administrative affairs of the Jerusalem church, especi-ally the distribution of funds for the poor.

Isaiah prophesied that the Gen-tiles should come to the light, "and kings to the brightness of Thy rising.

"Lift up thine eyes round about, and see: all they gather themselves together, they come to Thee: thy sons shall come from far, and thy daughters shall be nursed at thy side."

Promising to come to the Ro mans as soon as possible, Paul wrote to them that he now must go to Jerusalem to "minister unto the saints.

These saints of the church were in want, and Paul wrote the Romans, that contributions for them had come from as far away as Macedonia and Achaia, "Yea, it hath been their good pleasure; and their debtors they are. For if the Gentiles have been made par-takers of their spiritual things, they owe it to them (the saints) also to minister unto them in carnal things."

Stripteaser Decides To Serve Her Sentence

MARLBORO, Md., Sept. 27-INS)-"Shelia, the Peeler," a voluptuous blonde striptease from Cleveland, got star billing today at the Marlboro jail and started serving a two-day sentence for in-decent exposure.

"The Peeler," known non-pro-fessionally as Shelia Ryan, 24, had appealed her conviction for taking off too much in the wrong place at a nearby night club.

Early this morning, however, she told Marlboro police that she was dropping the appeal—like she often has her alleged costume—and was ready to race the music without orchestra.

A loud-mouthed cicada had moved into the upper branches of our pear tree. At intervals he set up his noisy hullabaloo, drowning out all competition and plainly adver-tising his position. Before it grew too dark to navi-gate I hurdled the fence to an abandoned field next door, where

Agonized Scream

Suddenly the song of this noisy harvest fly terminated abruptly in a sort of agonized scream. I did not see the action, but I know exactly what happened to that cicada, whose voice is stilled forever. One of the larger "digger" wasps, not too common hereabouts, had moved in in search of fresh meat. He spied the cicada and struck while Mr. Loud-mouth was engrossed in making music.

The big locust never had a chance. The digger carries a powerful anesthetic. With one quick sting she had paralyzed the cicada and thrown it into a permanent comatose condition. Then she be-gan the laborious task of hauling this huge careass to her burrows in some clayey bank, where the cicada will be carefully stored in a dry cell. The wasp will then lay one egg on the body of her helpless victim, and the larval baby wasp, hatched in a few days, finds himself sitting on his breakfast. Example of Sudden Death

What struck the cicada is only a more dramatic example of the sud den death which haunts all of Nature's byways. As the September evening deepened toward darkness Mr. Gumpox, the toad, and four

There were no other night sounds except the continuing chorus of the crickets and the talk-ative katydid. This is the hour when the day shift settles down to a fitful, watchful sleep, and the night shift comes on to continue Nature's round-the-clock perform-ance.

Soon real darkness claimed the land. A mournful locomotive, freighting through the valley, raised shivering echoes with a curdling banshee wail at a road crossing. Blundering insects of the night began hurtling about over the flower beds. As I turned on the the common goldenrod and the tall wild sunflower were in peak bloom. By AL SPIVAK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 27. — Discovery of a huge iron ore deposit near Morgantown may point the way to a new development of iron nining in Pennsylvania.

"Perhaps this another of the .mmense bubbles of molten ore such as resulted in the Conrwall iron mine," said Internal Affairs Secretary William S. Livengood,

'At all events, it is in the same south mountain district," he added, "and if there are two such deposits there may be others."

The history-laden Cornwall mine in Lebench country is cassidated. in Lebanon county is considered the largest ore producer east of ake Superior.

The Morgantown deposit, a few miles south of Reading, is less than 30 miles from Cornwall. Both developments are owned by Bethlehem Steel company.

Livengood said the new discovery is an example of Pennsylvania's vast mineral potential but insisted that the commonwealth cannot carry on an adequate exploratory program of its own be-cause of lack of funds.

Week's Increase Is 2,212, Reports Show

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27-(INS) The Defense department Wednesday announced a sharp increase in American casualties in Korea to a total of 85,469, or 2,212 more than last week.

The week's increase, including 890 dead, was much the largest since the start of the Korean armistice negotiations and exceeded the weekly average of American Casualties for the entire war. The previous week's increase was 895, and the low during the armistice negotiations was 256 for the week of August 17. Casualties have averaged about 1500 a week FARM

Local 69's

REPORT TO THE PUBLIC

The 1,700 of your friends and neighbors who struck against the management of Johnson Bronze are heading back to work now. It would be foolish to term the terms of the settlement a complete victory, but in no way was it a defeat. We were seeking to establish some principles which will benefit all of New Castle. In gaining better wages and working conditions at J. B., we believe we have helped the entire community.

NOTE OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends within the ranks of labor and from the public at large for their generous support during our six-week effort. Many of you have donated money, supplies and time to help us. We are extremely grateful. We found all labor behind us, and we found the community in sympathy with us. Like a man, an observer can tell something of the calibre of a union by the calibre of its friends. We are proud to find so many fine organizations and persons on our side.

ONLY 38% APPROVED

We believe we came out of this strike far stronger than we went into it. On J. B.'s wages our people had no financial cushion to rely on. Yet, despite the fact that the strike had dragged on for six weeks and we had gained some substantial improvements in the contract offered, only 38 per cent of our membership voted in favor of accepting the offer. Many of our members, disgruntled at the offer and extremely conscious of the company's policy, were willing to go along with the decision of those who felt strongly enough either way to vote on the issue.

MATTER OF PRINCIPLE

By striking, we believe we have established two principles more significant even than the immediate benefits gained. We believe we have established in the minds of J. B. management that it must deal with the Union, the certified agent of the workers and that attempts to cram offers down their workers' throats by circumventing the union can lead only to trouble.

We believe we have made some progress in establishing the principle that Johnson Bronze must pay its workers as much as its competitors and as much as other plants in the area pay. We will continue to work on this point.

• EYES OF THE LAW

We hope that through this strike Johnson Bronze has learned to be a good citizen. Violations of the ethics of good citizenship can bring only court action.

FOR LABOR PEACE

For continued labor-management peace at Johnson Bronze, the company will have to observe the terms of the new contract in better faith then it displayed during the entire negotiation period. We will be suspicious until we have evidence that Johnson Bronze is willing at last to treat its workers fairly. At the same time, if the Company is willing to start a new era of good feeling in the plant, Local 69 stands ready to cooperate in all honorable ways.

Our people know now the feeling of walking the bricks, of pulling their belts tighter to gain what is rightfully theirs. In stress, we have found new sources of courage and leadership. Johnson Bronze will find us easy to get along with ONLY if it acts and bargains in good faith.

The measure, sponsored by Sen.
A. R. Pechan (R) Armstrong, is hanging on the house work calendar pending a possible third consideration by the GOP caucus. It would require loyalty oaths from teachers, talk employees and from teachers, state employes and elected officials. In letters to members of the General Assembly, State VFW Commander James J Davis said veterans "are disturbed by recurring reports that the Pe-chan loyalty bill is to be killed." Pointing out that the state VFW convention delegates adopted a resolution in July calling for adoption of the measures, Davis wrote:

"It is only through such a bill that Communists and subversive elements in our state government, or tax-supported agencies and in-

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Three year-old Jimmy Stern was worried. There had been some sharp words between Mother and Father and now there was silence. Finally, Jimmy looked up and asked, "Pappa love Mamma?"

This broke the ice. Startled, Mr. Stern stared at his son and then began to grin. In a moment Stern Jr., was completely reassured by the change in the family atmosphere.

Yes, it makes a whale of a lot of difference to children if they feel sure that parents love each other. All sorts of minor things can go wrong. Discipline can be faulty. Schedules can go awry. But the reassuring, steadying effect of knowing that Mom and Dad like each other serves to counter-bal-ance any of the lacks.

And yet, even show of affection may be twisted into undesirable forms. Witness the father who King, Mrs. Horace Tressler and apparently mother and father were Mrs. Roy Mumford.

Change Effected

Through the efforts of the Women's Auxiliary, a great change has taken place at the Home this past year. Many of those present on Wednesday, were pleasantly surprised upon seeing the lovely surprised upon seeing the lovely redecorated living room, office and playroom at the Home.

The 49 children residing at the Home find that the changes pro-vide more comfort and a more "homey" atmosphere. The rooms have an entire "new" look and even the smallest of the children at the home appreciate the great improvements. In addition there also have been minor changes and improvements made.

Members of the Board of the Margaret Henry Home were pre-sent throughout the day and acted as guides for those touring the Home, Mrs. Lida Green is the ma-tron of the Home and she is assisted by Miss Bertha Patterson.

The Women's Auxiliary conducts monthly meetings at the Home. It is at these meetings that matters are discussed pertaining to the welfare of the Home and the children residing at the

Mrs. Julius Cobb was assisted by a large committee in making the tea and open house arrangements. To them also, due credit has been extended for making this tea and open house reception, a warm and friendly meeting—one of the best ever to be held at the Home.

Iaymen about the plans of the year 1952. Mr. Wheeler was one of 30 prominent business and professional men who recently spent three days at Seabury House, Episcopal House, Episcopal Conference Center, near Greenwich, Conn., where he took a course of training given by national church leaders. President Bishop, Henry Knox Sherrill along with the heads of the church's national work in promochurch's national work in promo-tion, education, social relations, tion, education, social relations, missions at home and overseas, drilled the leaders in every phase of the church's future program.

To Give Course Here

Mr. Wheeler comes to this city to give the same course to the carefully selected laymen of this area. Each man trained at Seabury area. Each man trained at Seabury House will give a similar course of instruction until more than 2300 laymen will have been indoctrinated in the church's 1952 program. During the progress of the training course here, time will be given to present the program of the local diocese. In the overall training program, new and unique techniques are employed and the men trained are of exceptional ability and of high standard in their business and profession.
